Just a few thoughts

Two Day Town is a wonderful event. It's an excellent example of making great use of an East Bay Regional Parks District property.

Throughout the year, especially starting January, the feeling of looking forward to something special begins. A kind of excitement builds.

The sheer number of folks who volunteer their time & help is impressive. That entire group makes sure things run smoothly and safely.

During the event many, many folks continue friendships developed over the years by getting to see & visit with folks from all over the area. So much camaraderie. Truly a community feel.

For musicians and music lovers, it offers multiple examples of how to share music with others in a consistently comfortable & friendly environment.

And each Two Day Town brings folks to the lake who may not have even been aware of Lake Del Valle. My feeling is that Two Day Town results in additional visits throughout the year. Lake Del Valle is a beautiful area, The lake, the hills, the fishing, the trails, the serenity. it's a real gem.

Hopefully, with a little discussion and understanding by everyone involved, Two Day Town can continually evolve into an even better event. It's pretty amazing what an event, of just a few days a year, can accomplish.
