

Hello wonderful humans of EBRPD

It is my sincere pleasure to tell you about my experiences with the fabulous event known as Two Day Town.

In the words of the illustrious James Benny "Two Day Town is a family camping and music event- In that order" a place where great music serves as a backdrop for family camping a time for being together in nature, a place where we can connect with each other and our precious environment.

For my family "the Tennis Clan" that means five generations dancing singing playing and crafting together. From my 86-year-old Mother to my 4-year-old Great, Great Niece, there are wholesome activities for all.

Some park rules actually facilitate that wholesome environment and we are happy to comply, no glass bottles for example is a great way to keep alcohol related issues down. Other proposed rules such as no music after 10 would absolutely kill the spirit of TDT. Artists who perform on stage have a chance to play with different bands and individuals learning from each other and connecting our musical community with a sense of solidarity unavailable to them in any other way.

As a volunteer for hundreds of concerts over multiple venues such as: Rock Med, Light Spirit First Aid, Trinity Tribal Stomp as well as TDT I can tell you this is the cleanest most respectful festival I have ever worked.

As the Bathroom Babe of 2DT (fresh bathroom coordinator) it has been my job to keep the bathrooms clean and healthy. It has been my Joy to go beyond that job description to learn how your maintenance staff want those restrooms to look when I am done. To those ends, I have learned exactly how to respect the wildlife that may choose to reside in the storage areas, load the paper to park employee specifications and keep the closet areas tidy. Additionally I am one of the last people to leave the park on Monday as I deep clean all the toilets, sinks and floors as well as sweeping out the cobwebs creating a welcoming environment to the general public as the park opens for the season.

I am not the only one doing that little bit extra; some folks are busy picking up the smallest bits of trash left by park visitors throughout the year while others are insuring that we are adhering to all park expectations.

I ask that you consider the unique needs of our event when drafting our agreement,

Ty Speck
